Training Course for the DIAL Catalog of Digital Solutions

February 7, 2022
About DIAL

The Digital Impact Alliance (DIAL) is a “think, do, replicate” tank that investigates digital transformation best practice at the national, regional, and global level. DIAL combines practical research with evidence-based advocacy to identify which digital efforts work, package them as re-usable solutions, and encourage their use. DIAL is funded through a collaboration among the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, the United Kingdom’s Foreign & Commonwealth Office (FCDO) and the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA), and hosted within the UN Foundation in Washington, D.C.

Under its new Strategic Plan for the 2021-2025 period, DIAL is working on connecting and expanding the availability of proven solutions for faster uptake and adoption in national implementations. DIAL believes that if the supply side of the digital and data marketplace becomes more discoverable and is better supported, then more appropriate applications can be built locally to accelerate national digital transformation.

Background

In 2019, DIAL developed the Catalog of Digital Solutions, a tool designed to support governments, donors, and non-Governmental organizations (NGOs) in the discovery, selection, and evaluation of software products that have been developed to address the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

In 2021, with support from partners, the Catalog has undergone a process of enhancement and redesign to improve usability and functionality for users to discover and evaluate Digital Public Goods. After conducting user interviews and focus groups, a key need to strengthen the skills of users while using the Catalog was identified. In 2022, DIAL aims to improve the engagement and adoption of the tool through a high-quality and interactive training course to accompany existing live and on-demand demos of the tool.

Project Description

The DIAL team requires contractor services to produce engaging training content for audiences. This content will consist of a hands-on 60–90-minute workshop, that can be delivered in-person or remotely with a facilitator to walk-through common user scenarios while gaining familiarity in navigating the Catalog. The anticipated attendance is between 10 and 30 attendees at a time. The goal of the workshop is twofold: a) help users gain familiarity and ease with using the website through a creative and engaging manner, and b) help the DIAL team record feedback from users on the functionality of the Catalog as they navigate common scenarios. DIAL is looking for a firm that has a proven track record of designing producing high quality training courses, inclusive of materials and interactive components.

Scope of Work

The objective of this work is to design, develop, and produce one training course focused on navigating the Catalog using common user scenarios or through interesting and relevant case studies from multiple sectors, such as health and agriculture. The selected instructional design firm will be responsible for taking existing content, generating accompanying content where gaps exist, and transforming it into instructional materials suitable for in-person delivery, with suggested adaptations for virtual delivery.
DIAL has already created several assets that can be leveraged for this project, including:

- The DIAL Catalog’s Overview Video
- The DIAL Catalog’s Demo Videos
- User scenarios that can be used to navigate the Catalog

In addition to the above materials, the vendor will be responsible for finding or developing case studies or exercises that will augment the training. The vendor will assist in refining the course designs based on feedback from users and will be responsible for finalizing the materials.

The training course will combine instructional content (both written and video) with hands-on exercises that the participants will engage in to fully understand how they can use the Catalog in their work.

The vendor must deliver the courses in standard file formats (such as PDFs, PowerPoints, MP4s or MOVs) so courses can be migrated across different platforms. Additionally, the vendor will bring experience in adult learning methods, designing similar workshops, and working with stakeholders in international development. The vendor must enable the transfer of training material to a TBD learning management system and provide access to learning analytics through the process.

The training should be suitable for a wide-range of stakeholders since the audience for the trainings will be Global Development Actors, including those operating in low- and middle-income countries that are the targeted users of the Catalog, in the following categories:

- Donors
- Policy Makers
- Implementing Organizations
- Technology and ICT Ministers
- Procurers of Digital Technology Products
- Digital Product Owners
